

Describe a person you recently met

1. who the person is
2. how you met him/her
3. where you met him/her
4. and explain what you liked/disliked about this person

I want to talk something about Ron who I met recently. He moved into my community last month. At first glance, he is a little bit weird because he wears outdated clothes and has long beard with a strange look in his eyes.

This essay is based on topic neighbour. I changed some place to make it more appropriate to this very topic

I met him all of a sudden and that was interesting. One day he knocked on my door and I opened it. He came to my flat and asked whether I can give him some copper or not. I was pretty perplexed with his sudden appearance and demand for the copper. He told me that he was doing an important experiment and he needs this to carry out his test. I apologised that we do not have any copper to offer him and advised him to visit a nearby shop.

This part is easy to describe, only a short story to answer how you got met this person and where met him very means specific. such as the very first page

After several days he invited me to his flat for dinner to thank me helping him to get copper. I understood from that very day that he was very great and I like this kind of guy. ★ He loves to do some strange experiments by himself at home and firmly believes that he could create something to change the world. ★ Surprisingly, he travels to hills and forests mostly to stay close to nature just for idea generation for his experiments. ★ To my shock, he has quited his full-time job now because his boss pushed him too much and he found his work is too boring. He wants to live freely and do what he believes.

why I like him: 1. strong belief, 2. aim of travelling. 3. do not care about decent work

Maybe he is not a success because he has no job and decent salary. But I like him and think he is great. If a person dose not do what he loves and keep a positive attitude towards his belief, he is never to be great.
