

Describe a city you have visited

1. what is the name and where is it
2. when you visited it.
3. what are the attractive things of this city
4. and explain what influence did the city have on you.

Chengdu is the largest city in Southwest of China and the capital city of Sichuan province. It is a low plain surrounded by lots of huge mountains. In the past, it is very hard to achieve but now, thank to the high-speed rail and plane, it become very easy to visit there. Last November, I went to Chengdu to participate a training session. I live there for a year. That's my whole university days. The first is Chengdu is one of the most clean city in China. It is benefit from its climate. It is a rainy and moist city. There are two things I have to emphasize about Chengdu. Secondly, Chengdu is a eater's paradise. There are lots of dishes snacks, especially spicy ones, and the hot-pot as a result from dinner.

I do not recommend you talk your university things here. Your topic is "visited"

use foodie

In speaking of a city I have visited, I would like to talk about Chengdu. I went to Chengdu to participate a training session last year. Chengdu is the capital city of Sichuan province and is located in southwest of China.

finished 1 and 2

Once I was arrived, I was attracted by its clean environment. I cannot see any rubbish on street and even the rubbish bins are not dusty at all. I feel very comfortable when I was on my way to hotel, totally immersed in the clean and clear air. After several days, I came to realize that Chengdu is a paradise for foodies. There are nearly different snacks on every street. But the spicy food, such as hot-pot is everywhere. I cannot control my tears the first time when I tried Chengdu hot-pot. Really too hot. But I also cannot help eating it all because it is too yummy.

Two points: environment (clean vs my feeling) and food (diversity and my favourite).

life style: not busy, leisure activities, trigger my thinking (biggest influence on me)

Another interesting thing in Chengdu is the leisure life style. Chengdu is not that busy as Beijing and Shanghai. You could notice that people here live on a slow pace. People are fascinated about having tea and playing chess on park. It seems that they balance their life and work very well. When I came back from Chengdu, I tried to think how I can cope with my work well and also live a leisureable life. This must be the biggest influence on me from that city.
